RECIPROCITY ACT, 1943

9 of 1943

[31st March, 1943]

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS "Thereatment meted out to Indians overseas and their disabilities have been matter of deep and ever-growing concern to the Indians since a very long time. Indians have frequently given expression to their indignation from public platforms and on the floor of the Assembly whenever occasions arose for these. The latest I wish to refer to is Asiatic (Transval) Land and Trading Act, 1939 passed by the Union of South Africa imposing restrictions which Government are unbearable and strangulate trade and other legitimate activities of Indians. The actions of the Ministers of the Govern- ment of Ceylon as well as Burma prejudicial to the interests of Indians are too fresh to need any comment. They are following the examples of South Africa and Kenya who feel encouraged because His Majesty's Government either does not wish to interfere or is impotent to interfere in spite of our strong protest against discriminating legislation. As negotia- tions have frequently failed to achieve any satisfactory settlement with some of the recalcitrant British possessions nothing remains but to put into effect the principles of reciprocity which is the object of this Bill. The Bill if passed into law will provide a sanction - though not as effective as the economic - to the Government of India whenever negotiations with an (offending country in the British Empire fail. The permanent solution of our troubles can only be achieved when India enjoys the same freedom as South Africa or Great Britain." Govind V. Deshmukh.-Gaz. ofind., 1941, Part V, page 162.
